The Iman Fund (the "Fund") seeks growth of capital while adhering to Islamic principles.

Example:

This example is intended to help you compare the cost of investing in the Fund with the cost of investing in other mutual funds. It assumes that you invest $10,000 in the Fund for the time periods indicated and then redeem all of your shares at the end of those periods. The example also assumes that your investment has a 5% return each year and that the Fund's net operating expenses remain the same. Although your actual cost may be higher or lower, based on these assumptions, your costs, whether or not you redeemed your shares, would be:

1 Year	3 Years	5 Years	10 Years
$138	$429	$742	$1,629

Portfolio Turnover

The Fund pays transaction costs, such as commissions, when it buys and sells securities (or "turns over" its portfolio). A higher portfolio turnover rate may indicate higher transaction costs and may result in higher taxes for Fund shares held in a taxable account. These costs, which are not reflected in Annual Fund

Operating Expenses or in the example, affect the Fund's performance. During the most recent fiscal year, ended May 31, 2017, the Fund's portfolio turnover rate was 74.7% of the average value of its portfolio.

Principal Investment Strategies

The Fund seeks to achieve its investment objective by investing in common stocks and equity-related securities of domestic and foreign issuers that meet Islamic principles and whose prices the Fund's investment advisor, Allied Asset Advisors, Inc. (the "Advisor"), anticipates will increase over the long term. Islamic principles generally preclude investments in certain businesses (e.g., alcohol, pornography and gambling) and investments in interest bearing debt obligations or businesses that derive interest income as their primary source of income. The Fund may invest in companies of all market capitalizations. Any uninvested cash will be held in non-interest bearing deposits or invested in a manner following Islamic principles. There can be no guarantee that the Fund will achieve its investment objective.

Among the securities that meet Islamic principles, the Advisor will determine a security's attractiveness for purchase based on a number of factors, including its anticipated value, record of earnings growth, and possible turn around, among other things. The Advisor may invest in "growth" or "value" stocks, but it anticipates that a majority of its investments will be of the growth type. The Fund may sell portfolio securities at any time when, in the Advisor's judgment, their price has reached the intended target, their fundamentals have deteriorated, or there are better investment opportunities. The Fund normally does not invest in emerging markets securities except for those traded on U.S. exchanges.

Principal Investment Risks

The main risks of investing in the Fund are listed below. As with any mutual fund, you may lose money by investing in the Fund.

Market Risks: The return on and value of your investment in the Fund will fluctuate in response to stock market movements. Stocks and other equity securities are subject to market risks and fluctuations in value due to changes in earnings, economic conditions and other factors beyond the control of the Fund.

Management Risks: The Fund's ability to achieve its investment objective depends on the ability of the Advisor to correctly identify economic trends and select stocks, particularly in volatile stock markets. Also, your investment in the Fund varies with the success and failure of the Advisor's investment strategies and the Advisor's selection of the Fund's portfolio securities. If the Advisor's strategies do not produce the expected results, your investment could decline in value. It is possible that the Islamic principles restrictions placed on investments and reflected in the principal investment strategies may result in the Fund not performing as well as mutual funds not subject to such restrictions.

Foreign Securities Risks: The Fund's investments in securities of non-U.S. companies ("foreign securities") involve risks relating to adverse political, social and economic developments abroad, as well as risks resulting from the differences between the regulations to which U.S. and non-U.S. companies and markets are subject, including changes in foreign exchange rates. Non-U.S. companies may not be subject to accounting standards or governmental supervision comparable to U.S. companies, and there may be less public information about their operations. Non-U.S. markets may also be less liquid and more volatile than U.S. markets. Non-U.S. markets may offer less protection to investors, and foreign companies may be subject to greater risk of expropriation of assets. Enforcing legal rights may be difficult, costly and slow. Transactions in foreign securities may entail higher transaction costs and various administrative difficulties. The risks described herein are greater in emerging markets.

Market Capitalization Risks: Exposure to stocks of mid and/or small capitalization companies may cause the Fund to be more vulnerable to adverse general market or economic developments because such securities may be less liquid and subject to greater price volatility than those of larger, more established companies. Stocks of mid and/or small capitalization companies may be subject to more abrupt or erratic market movements than those of larger, more established companies or the market averages in general. Such companies may have limited product lines, markets or financial resources, and they may be dependent on a limited management group.

Preferred Stock Risks: The equity-related securities in which the Fund invests may include preferred stocks. Preferred stocks are generally subordinated to bonds and other debt instruments in a company's capital structure and therefore will be subject to greater credit risk than those debt instruments. In addition, preferred securities are subject to other risks, such as having no or limited voting rights, being subject to special redemption rights, having distributions deferred or skipped, having floating interest rates or dividends which may result in a decline in value in a falling interest rate environment, and/or having limited liquidity.

Cybersecurity Risk: Cybersecurity breaches may allow an unauthorized party to gain access to Fund assets, customer data or proprietary information, or cause the Fund and/or its service providers to suffer data corruption or lose operational functionality.

Growth Stock Risk: Investing in the Fund includes the risk that growth style companies may lose value or move out of favor. Growth style companies also may be more sensitive to changes in current or expected earnings than the prices of other stocks or may not perform as the Advisor anticipates.

Value Stock Risk: The intrinsic value of a stock with value characteristics may not be fully recognized by the market for a long period of time, or a stock judged to be undervalued may actually be appropriately priced at a low level.

After-tax returns are calculated using the historical highest individual federal marginal income tax rates and do not reflect the impact of state and local taxes. Actual after-tax returns depend on your tax situation and may differ from those shown. Furthermore, the after-tax returns shown are not relevant to those who hold their shares through tax-deferred arrangements such as 401(k) plans or IRAs. The “Return After Taxes on Distributions and Sale of Fund Shares” may be higher than the “Return Before Taxes” due to an assumed tax benefit from any losses on a sale of Fund shares at the end of the measurement period.
